NATIONAL BUSINESS
CRIME CENTRE

Reducing crime through partnership and prevention

Overview

- Business crime accounts for 25% of all crime
- Previously, only a small central Metropolitan Police resource dealt with whole of London business responsibility
- NBCC born as a result of successful Police Transformation Fund Bid – lead has come to London under Deputy Commissioner Craig Mackey
- 2017-2019 Home Office Funding increased staffing to allow for National support

The challenges

- Between 40-80% of Business Crime is under reported
- Fragmented approach
- Businesses feel neglected
- Lack of confidence
- Police resources stretched
- 43 ways of approach
- Concerns from both sides about sharing intelligence

CRIME CENTRE

Reducing crime through partnership and prevention

OUR OBJECTIVES

- Improve partnerships with the business community and raise National police standards, to accurately understand and reduce the impact of crime
- Enable businesses to target their resources more efficiently, through effective intelligence and information exchange, disrupting organised business criminality at a National level
- Prioritising prevention, enabling businesses to protect themselves from cyber, fraud and terrorism by being a conduit of best practice and a centre of excellence supporting all businesses throughout the UK.

CRIME CENTRE

Reducing crime through partnership and prevention

Why are we here?

- Businesses finding that Police Forces are doing things 43 different ways
- A need to Join up the dots between police forces, security initiatives and private sector/business
- Aspiration of NBCC to be the ‘Go to place’ and a Centre of Excellence for both big and small businesses
